CPE Compliance Reporting

If you were licensed as a North Carolina CPA after January 1, 2025, you do not report 2024 CPE.

If you were licensed as a North Carolina CPA before January 1, 2025, you must report your 2024 CPE. Any carry-forward credit from 2023 will automatically populate in your CPE report.

If you still need to complete your 2024 CPE hours, you have until June 30, 2025, to do so. Be sure to obtain your certificates of completion before completing the renewal.

If you complete the 2024 CPE requirement between January 1 and June 30, 2025, without an approved extension from the Board, you will receive a Letter of Warning and be subject to a CPE audit.

If this is your second CPE deficiency in five years, your renewal will be denied under 21 NCAC 08G .0406.

If you have a CPE related question, please contact Cammie Emery, Licensing Specialist.

Requesting Inactive or CPA-retired Status

If you are considering inactive or CPA-retired status, please make sure you review and understand the limitations of each status before submitting your change of status application.

For your convenience, you may request inactive status using the online form. To apply for CPA-retired status, complete and submit this application. Both forms are also available from the Forms & Applications page of our website.

IMPORTANT NOTE: You must submit your CPA-retired application and receive approval from the Board before renewing your certificate for 2025-2026.

If you have questions about inactive or CPA-retired status, please contact Alice Grigsby, Licensing Specialist.

Action Required: Download Your NCACPA CPE Records

If you complete CPE through the NCACPA, please be aware that the NCACPA is transitioning to a new Learning Management System and its current platform will not be accessible after June 17, 2025.

To avoid potential CPE compliance issues, please download all certificates and course materials now as the NCACPA will not be able to retrieve them after June 17. You should also submit any outstanding Certificates of Completion by June 17.

Records for conferences, clusters, and in-person events are not stored in the Learning Record. If you require copies of these records, please contact NCACPA Support directly.

To request your official NCACPA CPE transcript, log in to the NCACPA Member Portal.

Common CPE Compliance Issues

During recent CPE audits, Board staff have identified several recurring compliance issues. To help ensure continued compliance with Board rules, please review the following common concerns:

Insufficient Documentation for CPE Hours

The Board's rules require most active CPAs to complete at least 2,000 minutes (40 hours) of CPE annually by December 31. In some cases, CPAs were unable to provide appropriate documentation to support the minutes reported. Please retain and organize all certificates and supporting records for your CPE activities.

Missing Annual Ethics Requirement

Even when CPAs meet the total CPE requirement, some have not completed the required 50 minutes of regulatory or behavioral ethics training. The course must be provided by a sponsor registered with NASBA. Be sure to verify that the field of study for the course (and on the Certificate of Completion) is identified as either behavioral ethics or regulatory ethics. Simply because a course has "ethics" in its title doesn't automatically mean it falls within these fields of study.

Duplicate Courses Claimed for Credit

Duplicate CPE courses are not eligible for credit. If the same course is taken multiple times, it may not count toward the annual CPE total. When such instances are identified, Board staff may request additional information or course descriptions to determine eligibility.

Maintaining accurate records and verifying that your CPE activities meet all requirements will help ensure a smooth audit process. If you have any questions about CPE, please contact Cammie Emery, Licensing Specialist.

My CPA Story: P. Calvin Coble, Jr., CPA

Mr. P. Calvin Coble, Jr., CPA, and his daughters, Angela Coble Partin and Amy O'Neal, attended the Board's April 21, 2025, meeting, where Mr. Coble was honored for 60 years of CPA licensure in North Carolina. After the meeting, his eldest daughter, Angela, spoke with her father about his journey as a CPA and wrote the following article, which is shared here with her permission.

How Two Educators Laid the Groundwork for 60 Years of CPA Service

Calvin Coble is originally from the rural Mt. Hermon community in southern Alamance County, and he attended Alexander Wilson High School. In 1959, during his senior year, Coble's mathematics teacher, Mrs. Bessie Robbins, noticed he excelled at math and encouraged him to consider a career as an accountant.

"At that time, no one knew what an accountant was or what they did," said Coble. "Mrs. Robbins explained that she and her husband recently had an accountant prepare their taxes, and he charged them $15 an hour!"

"Well, the most I'd ever been paid was 75 cents an hour, so that sounded good to me," Coble laughed. "But, with her words, she planted a seed."

However, that seed needed a little help to grow.

George Robbins, husband of Bessie, was the principal of Alexander Wilson. "I believe he was a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and he was a big supporter of the school," said Coble. George offered to take Coble to UNC to show him the campus.

"The principal of my high school let me drive his car from Graham to Chapel Hill," Coble recalled. "He showed me around the university and took me to the administration office in South Building, where I picked up a paper application. I filled it out, sent it in, and got accepted."

The encouragement and extraordinary assistance offered by the Robbins were pivotal. "My parents were not highly educated," explained Coble. "My dad's school records end halfway through the 6th grade, and my mother only completed the 8th grade. College would never have been something they would have known to encourage." And, with an older sister who suffered debilitating health problems, his family simply would not have had the time or resources for higher education.

Coble also applied for and received a scholarship through UNC. "And I will always wonder if Mr. Robbins had something to do with that," he added.

Working hard and taking summer classes, Coble graduated in three years, married his high school sweetheart, LaVena Phillips, and began his accounting career with AM Pullen & Company in Winston-Salem before returning to Alamance County and settling in Mebane.

He became a partner at Gilliam Coble & Moser in Burlington in 1968. Although he retired as a partner after 32 years of service, he continues to work as a CPA with Gilliam Bell Moser in Burlington.

More than six decades after a math teacher's encouraging words and a principal's special attention, Coble was praised for his lifelong service to the profession of accounting. "This is what we should be doing," said Coble. "Seeing potential in those around us and doing what we can to help it grow."

Board Honors Milestone CPAs

On April 21, 2025, the Board recognized North Carolina CPAs John Buie, Calvin Coble, and Bob Herford for achieving 60 or more years of NC CPA licensure. L-R: Mark Sotichack, CPA, NCACPA CEO, Mr. Buie, Bernita Demery, CPA, Board President, Mr. Coble, and Mr. Herford.

For about 60 years, Mr. Coble has been collecting and restoring antique clocks and watches. His hobby helped pay his daughters' college tuition.

Disciplinary Action

Pursuant to NCGS 93-12(9), "any disciplinary action taken [by the Board] shall be in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 150B of the General Statutes. The clear proceeds of any civil penalty assessed under this section shall be remitted to the Civil Penalty and Forfeiture Fund in accordance with G.S. 115C-457.2." NCGS 115C-457.1(b) states, "The Fund shall be administered by the Office of State Budget and Management. The Fund and all interest accruing to the Fund shall be faithfully used exclusively for maintaining free public schools."

ACCOUNTANTS IN THE MOVIES

Our May "Accountants in the Movies" trivia question is, "In this 1989 rom-com, Mikey's mom is an accountant in New York City. Who plays the mom, and what is the name of the movie?"

Look Who's Talking stars Kirstie Alley as Mollie Jensen, an accountant whose life is thrown into chaos when she becomes pregnant. The audience is treated to the humorous inner monologue of baby Mikey (Bruce Willis) as he observes the drama unfolding around him. John Travolta plays James, a kind-hearted taxi driver who unexpectedly becomes part of Mollie and Mikey's lives.

Congratulations
